

WOMENS DAY CELEBRATION

From the beginning of the organization women empowerment has been an important subject for BDVS. Based on this commitment, the organization had many programs and activities. Dalit empowerment will remain incomplete without women empowerment. In this robotic age Dalit women are left far behind. They are yet to come a long way. While we see there are plenty of programmes, acts, amendments and organizations working for their empowerment, as usual, it remains incomplete. In the meantime, there are huge numbers of Dalit women who want to raise their voice against the disparity they experience in society and also develop their leadership quality. BDVS has been working for these kinds of women. Last month these women had shown keen interest in celebrating INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY. The program was designed by BDVS and organized in several places of Bihar with the maximum contribution of local women. Through these programs about 2000 women were energized across Bihar and developed a strong motivation for spiraling leadership quality to fight for the rights of women. In this modern age women are trying to be in the main stream of society and show their abilities, which are sometimes much more than men. We had celebrated women's day in different places of Bihar such as Barh, Kawb (Bikram), Barbigha, Kharagpur, Turkey, Saharsha, and Khagariya, where Dalit women are more in number. In some places women had it in the way of arranging a public rally and public meeting; in some places they had it by arranging right based workshops, sports for women and advocacy workshops. We had SDO, district/Block level authorities, Advocates, PRI members, Police officers and representatives of different organizations as the guests or chief guests.
